Aside from the reasons already mentioned about cellphones being disruptive to passengers (to which I agree), there's also a safety issue: the same one that's posing a danger to our troops in Iraq: explosive devices detonated using cellphones. By not enabling cellphone traffic to/from aircraft, we eliminate this potential danger.